

HARMONY MOVEMENT IN DEMOCRATIC CIRCLES

FHA CLINIC TO BE FEATURE OF HOMES EXHIBIT

Federal Experts Ready to Consult With Owners of Property

Proclamation

Whereas it is my official duty and personal pleasure as chief executive of our city to sponsor and further any and all progress or movements designed to promote the general welfare of this community, and to aid its citizens in the proper developments of their homes; and

Whereas, the provisions of the National Housing Act afford an excellent opportunity to the citizens of our city to refinance existing homes, to secure mortgages, to build new homes or to modernize homes which they now own—thus putting them back to work and contributing in a positive way to the industrial and business recovery; and

Whereas, the Federal Housing Administration is endeavoring to acquaint the public with the liberal credit provisions and advantages of the Modernization Credit Plan and the Single Mortgage System through the operation of Insured Mortgage Clinics; and

Whereas, officials of the Federal Housing Administration will hold in our city a Mortgage Clinic, to be conducted by official representatives of the Federal Housing Administration from the office of the Northern District of Illinois;

Now, Therefore, I, William V. Slothower, Mayor of the City of Dixon do hereby call upon all citizens who can conveniently do so to take advantage of the opportunity to adjust their mortgage financial requirements by calling upon these officials personally, between 2:00 and 9:30 P. M., Friday, May 1, at the Dixon Home Show, in order that the benefits of the National Housing Act may be brought to a still greater number of our people.

WILLIAM V. SLOTHOWER, Mayor of Dixon.

Property owners of Dixon and vicinity who wish to build, remodel, repair or refinance their homes will have the opportunity Friday afternoon and evening of discussing their property finance problems with government experts from the Federal Housing Administration at a FHA clinic to be held at the Better Homes Exhibit at the Schuler building. The hours of the clinic are from 2 to 10 P. M. and all property owners who are in the mentioned class are invited to meet the experts. No obligation is incurred by consulting these men. Z. H. Pilcher, who is in charge of the clinic, states, and all consultations are in privacy and are confidential.

Personal Benefits
"It is my job," asserted Mr. Pilcher, "to acquaint Dixon citizens in every branch of industry as to the personal and business benefits which will accrue to them by participating in the federal housing administration program."

"Aside from the benefits made possible by having credit through insured FHA loans which provide for the building and refinancing of homes and the purchase of equipment for homes and commercial properties at low rates," Mr. Pilcher said, "there is a long term economic angle to the FHA program which intimately affects the entire business and social structure of the city."

"Not only will the program specifically stimulated a large area of business and be felt throughout the industrial field, but of equal importance is the fact that with increased production the demand for building craftsmen and labor will increase," he said.

Bob Hill is First Swimmer of Season

Bob Hill, North Galena avenue grocer, claims the distinction of being the first swimmer to test the waters of the Hudson of the West. Bob arose early this morning and accompanied Frank Edwards on a fishing trip on the north side between the dam and the Galena avenue bridge. He stepped on a rock at the water's edge, slipped and was completely submerged in an instant. He succeeded in paddling ashore, and climbed from the chilly waters, abandoning his fishing trip and hurrying home for dry clothes.

BAD FOR THE FISH
St. Johnsbury, Vt., April 30.—(AP)—Boys need not play hooky to go fishing tomorrow when the season opens here. The school authorities have declared a holiday for the town's 400 seventh and eighth grade pupils.

JOKE ON BIRDS
Ironwood, Minn., April 30.—(AP)—Downtown pavements were wet after a sharp rain and apparently looked like rivers to a flock of pied-billed grebes, who dived to a landing. Unable to take off from land, the birds waddled helplessly about until helpful spectators placed them in the Montreal river.

THAT'S HIS STORY
Glencoe, Md., April 30.—(AP)—This is A. P. Gorsuch's story of how he landed a trout and bagged a duck without casting a line or firing a shot.

Walking by a stream in his meadow, Gorsuch saw a flying duck dive in the water. A trout, eluding the bird, leaped so energetically that it landed on the bank at Gorsuch's feet. The duck hit the water so hard that it was stunned. Gorsuch easily captured it.

WAR ON BIRDS
Los Angeles, April 30.—(AP)—Mocking birds are not always romantic. One of them so annoyed a sleepy citizen he demanded police take measures.
In North Hollywood the citizens didn't wait for police. Seeing one pluck hair from the backs of cats and dogs to build a nest, they started shooting. Leo C. Pappa complained one shot almost struck an innocent bystander and another crashed through the windshield of Pappa's car.

SHOE FACTORY'S GENERATOR NOW BEING REWOUND

The Dixon plant of the Brown shoe company closed down last evening until May 15 to permit necessary repairs to be made to the power plant. A large electric generator which has been in service for almost 20 years is being rewound and a force of electricians from St. Louis started work last evening on this undertaking. They will work night and day making the repair.

Superintendent T. J. Lyons left today for the Brown plant at Murphysboro, Ill., where he will spend two weeks in the style department of that factory. He will return in ample time for the reopening of the Dixon plant the middle of May and before departing today, announced that the prospects for the summer months indicated a very busy season.

Fred C. Akers of Sullivan, Ill., has been transferred to the Dixon plant and has taken up his duties as office manager of the local plant.

Southern Race Problem is Acute as Result of Three Outbursts of Mob Violence in Last 48 Hours

Lepanto, Ark., April 30.—(AP)—Three outbursts of mob violence within 48 hours—the slaying of two negroes and a demonstration against a third which was frustrated by National Guardsmen—centered attention of the southern race problem today.

All negroes were accused of crimes against women.

GRIDIRON HERO JUST AS BRAVE AS A POLICEMAN

Oran Pape, Iowa Star in '28 and '29 is Killed on Duty

Muscatine, Ia., April 30.—(AP)—State highway patrolman Oran H. Pape—former University of Iowa football star who proved as heroic in a gun battle as he was on the gridiron—succumbed early today to a wound inflicted by a bandit he killed in a desperate struggle.

The "climax runner" of the Hawkeye eleven died after an emergency operation and a blood transfusion a few hours after he slew Roscoe R. Barton, 23, in a hand to hand fight yesterday.

Pape, 28, encountered Barton on the highway near Fairport and stopped his car to investigate. As he approached, Barton drew a gun, ordered Pape into the car with him and started to drive away.

Pape grabbed for the pistol with which he was covered. Barton fired point blank, ripping a hole in the officer's abdomen. Pape wrested the weapon away and sent a bullet through the gunman's head.

Provided Thrills
Pape signalled passing motorists, who rushed him to a Muscatine hospital in an ambulance.

The young athlete provided Iowa football fans with two of their biggest thrills. A hard-hitting half-back, he broke around end for a 67-yard touchdown run in the Iowa-Minnesota homecoming game of 1928, after the Gophers had held a touchdown lead most of the game. Irving Nelson kicked the point after touchdown to give Iowa a 9 to 7 victory.

The next year the blond ball carrier circled end in the last two minutes for the touchdown which gave Iowa a 9 to 7 victory over Minnesota.

With the aid of finger prints, Pape's slain foe was identified as Barton by Police Chief Sam Kelly of Davenport, Ia., Barton's home. Kelly said Barton was involved in a robbery of the Davenport armory in 1934.

J. Traynor of the Dixon state hospital was in town Wednesday trading with local merchants.

Biggest Peace Deficit in History of Nation Predicted by Treasury Secretary

Urged Imposition of Additional Taxes Today

Washington, April 30.—(AP)—A treasury deficit of $5,966,000,000—the biggest in peacetime history—was forecast by Secretary Morgenthau for the current fiscal year to end in urging congressional enactment of President Roosevelt's full tax program.

Morgenthau said prepayment of the bonus was partly responsible for the huge figure by which he said expenditures would exceed income in the 12-months ending on June 30.

In recommending that the senate add to the $803,000,000 house tax bill the temporary processing taxes asked by President Roosevelt, Morgenthau also estimated that the 1937 deficit would be $2,675,000,000.

Blames Bonus Act
He said that except for the bonus payment voted by congress, there would have been declining deficits in both years. In his budget message Roosevelt had emphasized that the treasury deficits were declining.

Morgenthau's deficit estimates were given as he was questioned by the senate finance committee, after reading a statement advocating enactment of the chief executive's tax recommendations in order to protect federal credit.

Appearing as the first witness as the finance committee opened hearings on the bill passed yesterday by a 267 to 93 house vote, the treasury chief said federal credit depended upon "scrupulous adherence to an orderly program looking to a balance of the federal budget just as soon as the needs and abilities of our people make that possible and thereafter upon a steady reduction in the public debt."

His First Appearance
It was Morgenthau's first appearance on the controversial tax program which has been assailed by Republicans and some speakers at the convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States as offering a blow to reemployment and business recovery.

Roosevelt's suggestion for temporary processing taxes did not even receive committee approval in the house.

Morgenthau, turning to the President's proposal for taxing corporations on a basis of percentages of undistributed income, center of the controversy over the tax measure, said it was merely an extension of the principle of "taxation according to ability to pay" which he said had "the undoubted and unquestioned endorsement" and support of the citizens of this nation.

The treasury secretary, for the first time, however, disclosed that this new corporate tax plan, estimated to yield $620,000,000 annually in permanent revenue, would raise only $310,000,000 for the first fiscal year.

Delays in Collection
"It must be recognized," he said, "that the choice of an income tax as the means for raising additional revenue necessarily involves a delay in realization of increased receipts."

"Receipts from taxes on corporate incomes for the calendar year 1936 will be collected in the main during the calendar year 1937 and will be divided June 30, 1937, and the fiscal year 1938."

"The net additional revenue to be expected from the application of the corporate income tax is estimated to be $310,000,000 in the fiscal year 1937. The full additional annual revenue would be collected in the fiscal year 1938."

Morgenthau read from a prepared statement.
Although there were suggestions of hot debate ahead, majority leaders expressed the opinion that support from some of the Republican independents would make up for deficiencies in the Democratic ranks when the measure came up for a vote.

Sen. Norris (R-Nebr.) has said he favors the bill in principle and Sen. LaFollette (Prog-Wis.) and some others have shown sympathy toward it.

Miss Bertha Fry who has been a patient at the Katherine Shaw hospital for several days is considerably better, reports from the hospital stated today.

Escapes Trial

Joliet, Ill., April 30.—(AP)—Because the state admitted a lack of witnesses to substantiate a murder charge, James Day, 22-year-old Stateville prison convict, looked forward today to dismissal of the case against him for the slaying of Richard (Dickie) Loeb.

Day was alleged to have confessed that he slew Loeb, serving a life and 99 year sentence for the thrill murder of 14-year-old Bobby Franks in 1924, but declared he acted in self-defense.

State's Attorney William R. McCabe said yesterday he would ask that the murder charge be dismissed with leave to reinstate.

CAPTURE SLAYER OF IND. POLICE-MAN IN CHICAGO

Gunman Admits Murder and Implication in Jewel Robbery

Chicago, April 30.—(AP)—Al Barton, 31-year-old Indianapolis gunman seized here yesterday, admitted today, Police Capt. John Egan said that he fired the shot which killed Sgt. Richard Rivers at Indianapolis Monday following a $15,000 jewel robbery the same day at Lima, O.

"Sure I killed him," Capt. Egan quoted Barton, who also used the names Bordon and Barden, as saying. "I killed him because I didn't want to go to the pen, that's why."

Also under arrest were Jack Becker, 31, Chicago, who Capt. Egan said was named by Barton as having disposed of jewelry stolen by members of Barton's gang; his wife, Laura, 21; William Giftman, 26, a jewelry salesman, and a woman who identified herself as Barton's common law wife, Margaret, 23.

The Indianapolis police officer was fatally wounded during a gun battle in an Indianapolis physician's office where the policeman had gone to investigate a report that four men had taken a wounded companion there to obtain treatment for a gunshot wound.

Had Stolen Auto
Parked outside a north side hotel where Barton and his woman companion were seized, police found a stolen roadster which Barton admitted using in his flight with three companions from Indianapolis.

In the automobile police said they found five revolvers, a repeating rifle and several hundred rounds of ammunition.

Although Capt. Egan said no robbery loot was found on Barton, the officer asserted approximately $200 worth of jewelry had been found in possession of Barton's woman companion and Becker.

Barton told them, police said, that he had three accomplices, whom he identified as "Jimmy," "Elmer" and "Lee," carried out the Ohio robbery and that "Elmer" was shot in the leg while fleeing.

"Jimmy" and "Lee" Barton said, were "somewhere" in Chicago carrying a black bag containing the $25,000 worth of loot.

Ikkes Again Refuses to Declare Himself

Washington, April 30.—(AP)—Secretary Ikkes declined today to say whether he would follow Secretary Wallace and affiliate with the Democratic party. Both formerly were active in Republican politics.

Ikkes and some Illinois Democratic leaders, whose names he would not disclose, have been discussing the selection of him as a delegate-at-large to the Philadelphia convention. Asked whether he would accept the offer of such a position, he said "I'll cross that bridge when I come to it."

Senator James Hamilton Lewis (D-Ill.) said earlier today that he had sought to advance Ikkes appointment as a delegate by the state convention at Springfield tomorrow, but that Illinois leaders had insisted that the secretary first publicly declare his affiliation with the Democratic party.

FORMER BUREAU CO. CARPENTER IS A MURDERER

"Edward Pender" Found to Be John Denner, Ohio Fugitive

As a result of a DeKalb resident noticing the resemblance between the picture of a fugitive Ohio murderer, published in a detective magazine, and "Edward Pender," a 48-year-old DeKalb carpenter, "Pender" is now a prisoner in the county jail at Sycamore, awaiting extradition to Ohio at John Denner. He will there begin serving a life sentence in prison instead of retiring with his bride of 15 months, to a truck garden near DeKalb, as he had planned.

The observant citizen showed the picture in the magazine to Sheriff Oscar N. Larson and expressed his suspicion. The picture showed Denner without a moustache, which he wore in DeKalb, to which city he went about a year ago.

Sheriff Larson and Deputy Lyndon Sebree called a month ago at the Denner home on Sycamore road on pretense of interviewing Denner about a fire which had occurred nearby. After giving a month's study to the case Sheriff Larson decided that the DeKalb man was Denner.

Ralph Hickey, chief deputy sheriff, was instructed to make the arrest Tuesday. He waited near the house all day in vain. Wednesday morning as Denner went to the mailbox, Hickey arrested him.

In the county jail, Jailer Sebree led him to the fingerprinting department.

"What is that for?" Denner asked.

"We're going to fingerprint you," Sebree said. Denner at first pretended his hand was too crippled

Nash's Position
One of the members of the state ticket who was participating in the peace efforts explained that Nash felt that Horner "already has taken from Chicagoans all the patronage he can, and that therefore Nash has nothing to gain by going to the governor."

Gets Life Term in 'Time Clock' Murder
Los Angeles, April 30.—(AP)—Life imprisonment was in prospect today for Gotfried Stettler, 25-year-old chauffeur, convicted of the "time clock murders" of Mr. and Mrs. Carl S. Barbour, an elderly couple he had befriended.

Although the state had asked the death penalty, a Superior court jury recommended a life sentence last night after finding him guilty of first degree murder, arson and second degree burglary.

Stettler was accused of having beaten the Barbours to death when they caught him robbing their apartment last February 19. To conceal his deed, the prosecution charged, he wired a clock to a heater and set fire to the place.

Upon conviction, the defendant withdrew his plea of innocent on reason of insanity.

NASH READY TO GIVE GOVERNOR "CONSIDERATION"

Gag Slapped on Cook Co. Chairman as He Talks of Peace

Springfield, Ill., April 30.—(AP)—Patrick A. Nash, Cook county chairman, today said he had the delegates to control tomorrow's Democratic state convention but added that "Mr. Horner is the governor and as such is entitled to some consideration."

While continued efforts were made to bring the governor and Nash together for a harmony meeting, the 73-year-old Cook county chairman said:

"Of course we will go along with the governor."

Nash was asked if the Chicago organization, which failed to defeat the governor for renomination, intended to dominate the convention and name the keynoter.

"We don't intend to do that," he said. "We want to satisfy the governor. We have the delegates, but after all Mr. Horner is governor and as such is entitled to some consideration. We want to elect all the ticket."

Gag Put On
At that point Judge John Sullivan of Chicago entered the room and refused to permit Nash to talk further.

Mr. Nash is not discussing that," Sullivan interrupted at every question. The judge said an announcement about the convention arrangements would be made tonight.

Nash earlier said he favored the re-election of Bruce Campbell of Belleville as Democratic state chairman. Campbell also opposed the Horner primary campaign.

Sullivan would not permit Nash to answer questions about the possibilities of a conference with the governor or the selection of delegates-at-large to the Democratic national convention.

Running Mates Active
Horner's running mates stepped into the apparent impasse between the governor and Nash, in an effort to bring peace between the two factions.

State Treasurer John Stelle, Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, Auditor Edward J. Barrett, and John C. Martin, running for treasurer, sought to bring the two groups together "at a neutral meeting place" but their first efforts met a rebuff.

Daniel Sullivan, secretary of the state central committee, and a Horner leader, turned a deaf ear to the proposal, declaring the "only place where they can get together is at the executive mansion or the governor's offices at the Capitol."

Nash arrived in Springfield yesterday afternoon but harmony hopes in the party soon faded as the Chicagoan stayed away from the executive mansion and the governor made no effort to see Nash at his hotel.

Flags were draped and chairs placed in the fairgrounds coliseum as final preparations were made for the arrival tomorrow of more than six thousand delegates and alternates for the one-day convention.

STUDENT "CITY"
OFFICERS TAKE
JOBS SATURDAY

Learning Duties From Incumbents; Ready for Positions

Newly-elected and appointed officers of Dixon high school's civic classes who will govern the city Saturday, have been busy all week interviewing city officers in preparation for their inauguration tomorrow night at the regular city council meeting. The student council will hold a meeting of its own Saturday night following their day of rule.

Student Mayor Arthur Klein, who defeated Leslie Marshall by a margin of 108 votes, will preside Saturday night with his council composed of Commissioners Lorraine Glannon, Louis Schumm, Robert Stutzel, William Thompson. Acting as police magistrate Saturday will be Robert Krug who defeated Mac Eichler by a margin of 89 votes.

Three Weeks Campaign
The actual project, governing of Dixon for one day, will climax a campaign which began three weeks ago when petitions were filed by three mayoralty candidates and twelve commissioner candidates.

Each officer is a member of the senior civics classes at Dixon high school. The students conducted their own primaries, and elected their own candidates, any student in the high school being eligible to vote. Polling places were set up in the several home rooms. The project is designed to teach the students by concrete example, municipal government as it is actually operated, and has proven very satisfactory in its results during past years. Miss Scott and C. B. Lindell, civics teachers, supervise the project.

"Old Timers" Visit

Wednesday was a day of pleasant surprises for Co. Supt. of Schools of L. W. Miller, two "old timers" calling at his office to make themselves known and to visit. The first was Samuel J. Howe, now an attorney at Wheaton, Ill., who became superintendent of county schools here 50 years ago following several years of teaching in the Dixon schools.

The second visitor was a schoolmate of Mr. Miller's boyhood days—Albert Fuestman, now residing in Newport, Oregon. Mr. Fuestman was accompanied by his daughter.

Advocates Dances In Modern Schools

San Jose, Calif., April 30—(AP)—"What we need in our schools are more dances," Mrs. Edith Mitchell, recreation chairman of the state juvenile protection committee, told a convention gathering. "We need good jazz orchestras of the type modern young people call 'hot' if we are going to put up competition that is good enough to keep our students out of beer parlors around the corner."

Greta Nissen, Movie Actress, Divorced

Los Angeles, April 30—(AP)—Greta Nissen, blonde movie actress now in London, obtained an annulment Wednesday of her marriage to Weldon Heyburn, actor. They were married in Tia Juana, Mexico, March 30, 1932.

Miss Nissen's lawyer called as a witness Emilio Gonzales, Mexican attorney, who testified they violated Mexican statutes on three counts: Previous residence, number of witnesses and acquaintance of witnesses and principals.

China was a very interesting country to shop in, with her beautiful silk shops, bead shops and the like. The Chinese are noted for their beautiful jade.

Miss Geisenheimer spoke of Cairo, which is considered one of the most interesting cities to shop in. She most vividly described the market place with its various odors from sweet scented flowers, fresh vegetables to live chickens and pigs.

A most vivid description of Jerusalem was given by Miss Geisenheimer. She most accurately described a donkey ride that she took on her tour. One very interesting exhibit shown to the ladies was the outer shell of a brazil nut with several slits in the top showing the nuts inside. The outer shell resembles a coconut only it is much harder and more grained and polished. A dozen or more nuts are in this outer shell arranged in sections similar to an orange.

Preceding the talk Mrs. Otto Schade accompanied by the piano by Mrs. Laurence Jennings, played a violin solo, entitled "Little Caprice" by Lester, which was greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Cecil Calhoun accompanied by Miss Ruth Boyd entertained with a vocal solo entitled, "One Fleeting Hour," by Fuhrman.

Philadelphia, April 30—(AP)—Manager Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Browns announced today he had traded first baseman Irving Burns to the Detroit Tigers for Elton C. Hogsett, a left-handed pitcher, and an unannounced amount of cash.

Hornsby said the trade was made last night in a telephone conversation with Mickey Cochrane, manager of the Detroit club, in Washington.

Hogsett will report to the St. Louis club tomorrow, Hornsby said.

formal manner took the ladies to the shops of China, Japan, India, Ethiopia, the Philippines and other points of interest. DEAR OLD BOZ
By Joseph Fort Newton
y Lords, I bring you news, news of the existence of mankind," cried Gwynplaine in the Victor Hugo story. And that is what Dickens did in his "Sketches by Boz," published a hundred years ago.
It was a new voice in literature, telling for the first time "how the other half lives." Others wrote of the knight, the courtier, the king, and the rustling skirts of my lady, but Dickens told of the man down under, a pageant of the gaunt, gray slums of London town.
A dear old city it is, where, if you drive on the right of the street you are wrong; if on the left, you are right. But it took the "stereoscopic eye" of Dickens to reveal its human panorama.

In the Sketches of Boz we hear the voice of the little boy who lived in the submerged hemisphere of London, loved it, knew it, depicting its quaint, queer, bedraggled, fantastic pathetic folk.
Not as specimens in a museum as other pleaders for the poor had done, but with a sense of common humanity, be they unfortunates or criminals. It was this magic touch that made Dickens great.

One may forget the last hours of Fagin, or the suffering of the pretty, pasteboard angel, Little Nell, or even the death of Paul Dombey, but who can forget the poor ballad-singer with her babe in arms?

A musty, melancholy smell floats across the page as we read the description of the window of the pawnbroker's shop, which Carlyle held to be a masterpiece. Who else ever saw so many things?

Yet if lower London is grim and often ghastly, it is never gloomy, as Dickens saw it. The best bits of Pickwick and the Sketches are those which show us people squeezing laughter and content out of little things.

If the centenary of these two books gives us anything one-tenth as good as Sam Weller, Dodson and Fogg, Mr. Pell, Smucker and Dowler, we may vow to refrain from reading Dickens for twelve months. Sacred things never die. The love and laughter and warm wisdom of dear old Dickens are among the things that will abide.

Messer-Field Wedding Said Last Wednesday

Mrs. Alida Messer has just returned from Jackson, Miss., where she attended the wedding of her son, Dana Gray Messer, of Washington, D. C., a graduate of the Dixon High School and a former Dixon Evening Telegraph carrier. His many friends will extend best wishes to him and his bride. A Jackson, Mississippi, daily paper, printed the following account of the wedding:

Magre (Special)—All the beauty and sacredness of a home wedding was embodied in the quiet marriage of Miss Elizabeth Field, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Field of Magee, to Mr. Dana Gray Messer of Washington, D. C. The ceremony was said in the living room of the family home Wednesday morning. Only members of the immediate families and the wedding party were present. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her only attendant was her younger sister, Miss Katie Ruth Field. Mr. Clifton Neely served as best man.

Mrs. Curtis Ware, violinist, accompanied by Miss Aline Walker, pianist, gave a program of music.

An improvised altar was formed by banks of maiden hair fern and baskets of crimson roses tied with white tulle. Roses, varying in color from delicate pink to deep crimson, decorated the living room, dining room, and other parts of the house.

The Rev. Lewis W. Ferrell, pastor of the Griffith Memorial church Jackson, and a friend of the bride and her family, officiated.

The bride wore a street suit of white silk moire, and carried a bouquet of crimson roses.

After the ceremony the guests were served refreshments. Little Bonnie Jean Walker and Beverly Ferrell assisted in the serving.

After an extended wedding trip to the Gulf Coast, Florida, and points along the Atlantic coast, the couple will be at home to their many friends in Washington.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Mrs. Alida Messer, of Dixon, Ill., mother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Seale of Vicksburg; Mrs. L. E. Field and Messrs. Joe and Carlisle Field of Centerville; Mrs. Lewis Ferrell and Beverly Ferrell of Jackson.

Miss Helen Rorer And Paul Grimes Take Bridal Vows

Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Rorer announce the marriage of their elder daughter, Helen Elizabeth, to Paul son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Grimes, on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, at the parsonage of the Methodist church, the Rev. Howard Buxton officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The charming bride was attired in a smart gown of aqua marine blue with accessories of brown patent leather. The maid of honor, Miss Fern Grimes, sister of the bridegroom, wore a pretty gown of aqua marine with white accessories. Both the groom and his best man, Emerson Rorer, brother of the bride, wore brown.

Both young folks are graduates of the Dixon High school of the classes of '32 and '33 respectively.

Mr. Grimes is the capable manager of the meat department of the A. & P. store on Peoria avenue. Mrs. Grimes is a charming and popular girl. Both young people have the best wishes of hosts of friends for happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Grimes will be at home after May 15th, at 1506 West Second street, Dixon.

Miss Lucille Rickey To Wed Saturday

Mrs. Forest Suter and son Kenneth are leaving in the morning for St. Louis, Mo., where they will attend the wedding of her sister, Miss Lucille Rickey, to Colbert Miller. Women Can "Take It on the Chin." Better Than Men

Boston, April 30.—(AP)—Women may shriek and faint at the sight of a mouse, but when it comes to sitting in the dentist's chair and standing pain without a whimper they put the stronger sex to shame.

That, at least, is experience of Dr. Walter Emerson Briggs, instructor in dentistry at Tufts College, who is attending the 72nd annual meeting of the Massachusetts Dental Society here.

"Men as a rule are very unreasonable patients," Dr. Briggs said. "The language they use to the dentist is not exactly polite."

"Women can take any kind of pain without a whimper."

Teeth, Dr. Briggs declared, tell the dentist at once what sort of a patient he has to deal with. Teeth of a bluish hue, for instance, indicate a temperamental person. Yellowish teeth go with a happy-go-lucky disposition. Pearly white teeth, the kind every one longs for, are usually poor ones.

ROOSEVELT AND JEFFERSON

On occasion of his address at the Thomas Jefferson dinner, given by the national democratic club, President Roosevelt was moved to forego the comparison of himself with Jefferson. As he had made such comparisons with the hero of the day at Andrew Jackson and Theodore Roosevelt ceremonies, many of us wondered what he would do when he came to talk on a Jefferson day occasion.

Well, he just skipped it.

William R. Matthews, publisher of the Arizona Daily Star at Tucson, anticipated Jefferson's birthday month with a research into writings of the founder of the party, which also happens to be the party of Matthews. He gave wide distributions to his findings, which were summarized as follows:

"How would Thomas Jefferson stand on the New Deal?"

"His writings can leave no doubt that he would view with apprehension many present tendencies.

"Without question Jefferson would oppose:

- "1. The trend toward a centralized government.
- "2. Encroachment upon state rights.
- "3. Disregard of the constitutional division of coordinate powers among the executive, legislative and judicial branches.

"4. The tendency to broaden the activities of the federal government beyond its enumerated powers.

"5. Interference with individual liberties through a regimentation of industry and agriculture.

"6. Extravagance in government expenditures.

"7. Accumulation of an enormous public debt."

That about covers the doings of the New Deal and covers the fundamental differences between the Roosevelt socialists and the democratic party.

On a centralized government, Jefferson said:

"When all government, domestic and foreign, in little as in great things, shall be drawn to Washington as the center of all power, it will render powerless the checks provided of one government on another, and will become as venal and oppressive as the government from which we separated."

(All states then were east of the Mississippi river, "I wish to see maintained that wholesome distribution of powers established by the constitution for the limitation of both; and never to see all offices transferred to Washington, where further withdrawn from the eyes of the people, they may secretly be bought and sold as at market."

On the subject of distribution of powers, he wrote in his autobiography:

"It is not by the consolidation, or concentration of powers, but by their distribution, that good government is effected. Were not this great country already divided into states, that division must be made, that each might do for itself what concerns itself directly, and what it can so much better do than a distant authority. Every state again is divided into counties, each to take care of what lies within its local bounds; each county again into townships or wards, to manage minutest details; and every ward into farms, to be governed by its individual proprietor. * * * It is by this partition of cares, descending in graduation from the general to the particular that the mass of human affairs may be best managed for the good and prosperity of all."

On the subject of separation of powers, he said:

"I said (to President Washington) that if the equilibrium of the three great bodies, legislative, executive, and judiciary, could be preserved, if the legislature could be kept independent, I should never fear the result of such a government; but that I could not but be uneasy when I saw that the executive had swallowed up the legislative branch."

On economic planning, this:

"Agriculture, manufacturers, commerce and navigation, the four pillars of our prosperity, are the most thriving when left free to individual enterprise."

On the public debt this:

"The principle of spending money to be paid by posterity, under the name of funding, is but swindling futurity on a large scale."

"I place economy among the first and most important of republican virtues, and public debt as the greatest of dangers to be feared."

On government extravagance, this:

"The same prudence, which, in private life, would forbid our paying our money for unexplained projects, forbids it in the disposition of the public moneys."

"If we can prevent the government from wasting the labors of the people, under the pretense of taking care of them, they must become happy."

It was upon these foundation stones that the democratic party came down to 1932.

Then possession of it was gained by false pretenses, and the offense then was compounded by delivery of the party into the hands of the socialists.

"FINDER" LAW IS SUSTAINED

Iowa's law giving the finder of money 10 percent as a reward for its return has been upheld by the supreme court of the United States in the case of Gus Flood and a Clinton bank.

The bank resisted payment of $10,000, to which Flood was entitled under the law, having found $100,000 hidden by robbers in a junk pile on a farm near Commerce. Whether the resistance was on motion of the bank or at the insistence of the surety company, which was a party to the suit, is not a matter of public record.

Reported Suicide "Well" in London

Hopedale, Mass., April 29.—(AP)—Eben S. Draper, former state senator, announced from his home today receipt of word from his wife, reported missing since April 19, that she was "perfectly well" in London, England.

Mrs. Draper disappeared from a New York sanitarium on April 19. Since then she was sought aboard the Cunard-White Star liner George, where it was feared she might have committed suicide by jumping overboard.

Draper said a cablegram arrived from Mrs. Draper after the George docked in London today.

Draper refused to comment further upon the cablegram.

NURSES will find Record Sheets at The E. F. Shaw Printing Co.

Whatever the case may be, the public viewpoint is likely to be that the owners of the returned money were "short sports" in tendering the finder $25 as ample reward when the law of the state provided that he should receive $10,000.

We do not know what negotiations took place in advance of the law suit, but rather than carry the case to the supreme court of the United States, the ordinary person would have accepted an adequate reward though it might be less than the 10 percent. The Associated Press asserts that the tender was only $25.

We are not aware of how general are laws fixing a specified reward for finding of money, but it has been established as good law, and by this time the bank and the surety company probably are aware of the public opinion of their resistance of the claim.

Defeated Democratic Candidate Gets Term in House Correction

Chicago, April 29.—(AP)—Antone Olson, defeated candidate for the Democratic nomination for state representative of the 25th district in the last primary election, faced a two year House of Correction term today on his plea of guilty to obtaining money under false pretenses.

Judge Matthew D. Hartigan imposed sentence yesterday after prosecutors related that Olson obtained

$7,800 from Fred Sanborn by promising to use his "influence" in obtaining Sanborn's appointment as receiver of defunct insurance companies.

The actors in one Russian film consisted of puppets fashioned of wood, metal, clay, cloth and rubber. All their movements were made by hand, and 25 exposures were required to show one puppet raising its arm. The cast contains into diamonds are now made

The body of the New Firestone High Speed Tire is made from selected long-staple cotton dipped in liquid rubber, absorbing eight pounds of rubber in every hundred pounds of cotton. This patented Gum-Dipping process insulates every fiber in every cotton cord, preventing internal friction which creates the heat so destructive to tire life, and giving to the tire added strength.

This heavy, broad, traction and non-skid tread is held to the cord body of the tire with Two Extra Layers of Gum-Dipped Cords, a patented construction, making the cord body and tread an inseparable unit.

A leading university in 2350 tire tests has found that the new, scientifically designed Firestone High Speed tread stops a car up to 25% quicker. Its super-traction and non-skid efficiency have also been proved in the famous Pike's Peak Race where for eight consecutive years it has been used on the winning cars.

FALL OF ADDIS ABABA IS NEAR; CITIZENS FLEE

Italians Meet Little Resistance on Their March to Capital

BULLETIN

Rome, April 30—(AP)—An unconfirmed press dispatch said Marshal Pietro Badoglio's Italian troops entered Addis Ababa at 10 A. M. today.

Other reports said the advance guard of the Fascist troops were at the city limits. Previous dispatches had reported the motorized column of 30,000 men within artillery shot of the Ethiopian capital.

Italian newspapers announced in large headlines that the blackshirt soldiers were about to occupy Addis Ababa.

Rome, April 30—Marshal Pietro Badoglio, commander of the Italian expeditionary force in Ethiopia, reported today that Sasa Bahen, the gateway to Ethiopia's second city of Harar, had been taken by storm yesterday as a climax to many days of bitter fighting.

His report came as authorities there said tension between Italy and Great Britain was relaxing and that the danger of a European war resulting from the Italian campaign was diminishing.

Badoglio said that detachments of the southern Italian army had entered Bullaleh, northeast of Sasa Bahen.

Meanwhile, on the northern front, the fall of Addis Ababa appeared imminent, Badoglio reporting that the motorized advance on the capital was continuing.

Another Italian column, advancing from Lake Tana, took Debra Tabor, east of the lake.

Directed from Planes

As this column advanced, its operations were directed by seaplanes flying from their new base on Ethiopia's vast lake reservoir for the Nile.

Italian press dispatches said the advancing Italian column in Ethiopia had taken Ancober, the important city on the southern highway to Addis Ababa and once the capital of Shoa.

The entrance of Italian troops into the Ethiopian capital, it was suggested, probably will not be announced before tomorrow or the day after. Some authorities thought it possible, however, that the announcement might be made tomorrow to coincide with the Communist Red Day and thereby point a contrast with Fascism's newest achievement.

The occupation of Ancober, which is 85 miles from Addis Ababa, gives the Italians control of one of the main caravan routes to Harar and partly cuts off Ethiopia's second city from the capital.

NATIVES IN PANIC

(Copyright 1936, by The Associated Press)

Addis Ababa, April 30—Reports that Italian troops advanced past Debra Birhan, strategic town only 75 miles northeast of Addis Ababa, threw Ethiopia's capital into a panic.

Aviatrix Trains for War Service

With other noted U. S. airwomen, Mrs. Cecil (Teddy) Kenyon, above, of Boston, may play a key role in America's next war, if and when it comes. According to her, groups of women flyers are forming clubs, to train for such war-time service as piloting new planes whenever needed, carrying wounded soldiers and dispatches and replacing male commercial pilots.

Selassie's Warrior Son May Reign

Shown in Dessye, just before Italian troops seized the town, Crown Prince Asfa Wosan, above, in army uniform, gathered scattered Ethiopian troops in a valiant effort to stem the advance on Addis Ababa by Il Duce's legions. According to rumor, either Asfa Wosan or his brother, Makonnen, 12, Duke of Harar and Emperor Haile Selassie's favorite son, will succeed to the Ethiopian throne in a puppet regime, subservient to Italy.

Today, and the natives began an evacuation.

Foreigners started to take refuge in the various legations, the Americans going to the British compound.

The northern Italian army, marching in from Dessye, was reported advancing without encountering any resistance.

The advance guard of the Fascist forces was expected to reach Addis Ababa by tomorrow.

High government officials were leaving the capital.

A British ambulance unit which returned hurriedly overnight to the capital and reported the Italian advance on Debra Birhan was understood to be going to the interior, either accompanying Ethiopian government officials or joining other units which had already left in a search for Emperor Haile Selassie.

News Withheld

The government was withholding all official information concerning the situation on the northern front.

Before the native evacuation started, a squadron of Italian airplanes descended on the Akaki air-drome, on the outskirts of the city, and machine-gunned the empty Ethiopian hangars.

The British ambulance unit which came to the capital from the north first reported that the Italian troops were within 10 miles of Debra Birhan, on their march to Addis Ababa.

About 30 Americans remained in Addis Ababa, most of them missionaries. Many Americans decided some time ago to seek refuge in the British legation if it became necessary.

The American legation residence was closed from last August until early last month when the wife and two small children of Cornelius Van H. Engert, minister-resident and consul-general, arrived from Cairo.

Little Resistance

Members of the British ambulance unit which returned to the capital said the Italian advance guard had already taken Tarna Dur mountain, almost without resistance, in their drive on the seat of Emperor Haile Selassie's government.

The mountain stronghold was reported to have fallen before the Italian advance because Ethiopian reinforcements, sent from Addis Ababa, failed to arrive, and because the few defenders holding the mountain were not supplied with food.

Swedish Captain Tamm, commanding the defense of the mountain with only 30 men, was forced to retire. He returned to the capital seeking reinforcements.

"Awake and Sing"

To Be Presented By Group Theater at Selwyn Theater, Chicago, On Monday Evening, May 4.

Most people are legitimately concerned when a theatrical production from New York ventures on the road, lest they be plagued with a company who have been asked at the last minute to substitute for the players of the original run. With the Group Theater this, fortunately, is an impossible situation, because any performer in a production by this organization is a permanent member thereof and the process of substitution simply does not exist. Therefore, when "Awake and Sing" opens at the Selwyn theater in Chicago on Monday evening, May 4th, the same nine people who caused such a commotion as Robert Garland, of the New York World-Telegram, to call the drama "the best play of 1935" will be on display.

"Awake and Sing" is the work of a young man who succeeded in one year in becoming the most talked about playwright in America. The young man is Clifford Odets and the mention of his name is an automatic signal for violent quarreling practically anywhere. His "Waiting for Lefty", a story of the taxi strike, was performed in one hundred different cities three months after he had written it. Since "Awake and Sing" is a tempestuous comedy-drama which is much more difficult to perform than the simple story of "Waiting for Lefty," the permanent company of the Group Theater saw fit to enter upon their first nation-wide tour with this play, which Walter Winchell described in the Mirror as "powerful and excellent entertainment."

The domestic squabbles and joshing and tragedy which make up the story of "Awake and Sing" are true of families all over America. From the old grandfather with his victrola records to the young girl and her concealed love affair, everyone is able to identify himself with one of the characters. With "Awake and Sing" described as the best play of last year, the company considered "the best acting institution in this, if not in any other land" by Percy Hammond in the New York Herald-Tribune, and with the author regarded as the most exciting young playwright in America, the play is likely to earn from you the high superlatives it has been accorded by all the press and public of New York.

Junior English Picnic

Monday evening, April 20, Mrs. Steele invited all of the juniors to Green Oak for a picnic. The committees for the party worked under the supervision of Norma June Steele. The committee consisted of Edward Slutz, Eugene Moran, Dorothy Mervet, Margaret Kimberley and Miss Fry.

Because of the rain a very unique idea was carried out. The picnic was held in a box car which was originally intended to be used for dancing. The car was decorated with balloons and colored streamers. By means of an extension cord the box car was lighted. A radio was also connected. Weiners, buns, pickles, potato chips, and ice cream made up the menu.

Section A was the guest of Sections B and C.

Section A had won the contest for better grammar. About seventy students attended the picnic. Miss June Berry, Miss Genevieve Ashdown, and Miss Donabelle Fry, members of the faculty, attended the picnic.

Everyone enjoyed the picnic, and all thanked Mrs. Steele for her part in making the picnic a great success.

National Forensic League

In as much as we haven't been hearing very much from the debate department lately, we investigated the matter and found that the debaters are busy themselves sending in their applications for membership and advanced degrees to the National Forensic League.

The National Forensic League is an honorary society for participants in debate or other oratorical work. This society has chapters throughout the country. The Forensic League offers four degrees, merit, honor, excellence, and distinction. As one continues in speech work, getting more points, he becomes eligible for advanced degrees. In this way a great interest is kept in the League by the debaters.

Those eligible for membership this year are Dexter Nelson, Edmund Stiles, Virginia Piper, Kathleen Hayden, Alice Bowman, Leonard Puttcamp, Cecil Loberg, and Merrill Jackson. As soon as one becomes a member, he has the degree of merit. The following have the second degree, that of honor: Cecil Loberg, Merrill Jackson, James Tedrow, a member from last year, and Mr. DeLay, who had his membership transferred from Moosehart. Norma Klass, also a member of the League from last year has attained the third degree, that of excellence.

Visits "Farmer's Fair"

Miss June Berry spent the week end in Columbia, Missouri where she attended the Farmer's Fair, a yearly occurrence sponsored by The University of Missouri, Stephens College, all located at Columbia.

The formal horse show both Friday and Saturday nights was the main evening attraction. Saturday afternoon Miss Berry, saw a tennis exhibition game played by Mrs. Brown of Kansas City. Mrs. Brown was three times U. S. Champion before Helen Wills Moody.

Musician Speaks

An excellent assembly program was given before the students of Princeton High School Tuesday morning, April 21, by Mr. Jeffrey O'Hara, a composer and musician.

Mr. O'Hara has written "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride," "K-K-K-Katy," and other songs.

Mr. O'Hara showed the students how simple most music is. To illustrate this point he asked anyone in the audience to suggest a letter (note), A, G, and D were suggested, and Mr. O'Hara immediately sat down at the piano and played a little piece that began with those three notes. He explained that a piece of music has a few notes repeated in succession and then a "tail" to finish it. This group of notes is repeated to form the whole tune.

As a feature of the program Mr. O'Hara played his own composition, "K-K-K-Katy," as it might sound if played by different instruments or in different countries. For example, he played it as it would sound if played upon church bells, on a church organ, by a circus calliope, as a Spanish piece, and in many other ways.

The students enjoyed the program immensely as was indicated by their generous applause. Many were heard declaring that it was the best assembly program the school has had this year.

Tennis and Golf

Next week another annual tennis and golf tournament will be held. Anyone who wishes to enter these meets must sign up with Mr. Moser. The tennis meets will be held on the high school tennis courts, and the golf meets will be played off on the Princeton Elms Golf Course.

Famous Birthdays Celebrated.

Last Wednesday was a red letter day for the students of the senior English classes. There were three birthdays to be celebrated—William Shakespeare's, Mr. DeLay's, and Shirley Temple's, and the seniors left nothing to be wanted in going about it. Poems by and about Shakespeare were picked out and read by members of the classes. There was, unfortunately, no birthday cake, but with first-class imagination, which only seniors have, ice cream, angel food cake and candy were enjoyed by all.

Congratulations and many happy returns, Mr. DeLay—and Shirley Temple.

Princeton Second in Contest.

On Tuesday evening, April 21, the Future Farmers of America oratorical contest was held. Nine schools were represented, Tonica placing first, Princeton second, and Mendota and Walnut tying for third. McKinley Gaddie, who spoke for Princeton, had as his subject, "Prosperity Comes From the Farm." The orations were limited to ten minutes in length, and the chief factor in scoring was presentation. McKinley received a silver medal as a result of his excellent ranking.

Apollo Club Quartette.

A men's quartette, the Apollo Club Quartette of Illinois Wesleyan gave a fine program of vocal and instrumental music in an assembly Wednesday morning, April 22. The quartette sang many numbers which the student body enjoyed very much. Some of these were "Steal Away," "Nola," "The Woman in the Shoe," "A Great Day," "She's Fooling Me," "Three Blind Mice," and "Do You Ken John Peel?"

Before the program was given by the quartette Mr. Shaffer read the names of the A and AB students for the six weeks grade period that ended the week before. He also presented two medals awarded by the Josten Company from whom the class rings and announcements are bought. The awards went to the two seniors with the highest scholastic standing, Walter Carlson and Ruth Kuhn.

Announcements were made concerning the County Commercial Contest that was held Saturday, the tennis tournament, the golf and track meets to be held, and the agriculture classes oratorical contest. McKinley Gaddie took second place in the latter contest.

Dear Flies in Our Zoup— Notice to juniors: High-he all you lads and lassies—the biggest night in your high school career will soon be here, (especially for us seniors), and by the looks of things you promoters are certainly going to town.

Chuck S., brilliant senior, was running around loose Friday night looking for an iron stretcher. He probably ended up in a padded cell. Pun! Pun!

"Was Dr. Manette imprisoned in the Cistille," asked Shadow Cable in Sophie English when the class was studying the "Tale of Two Cities"—More Soapy puns.

Life began after the concert Friday night—Celia plus Skippy plus someone else patiently waited 'till Helen L. finished tootin' her "sax."

On the prom lists we found: "Alma Leake plus guest"—But unless we miss our guess the mysterious "guest" that has caused much commotion is none other than our dear lil' classmate, Johnny.

As follows is Martha Zearing's humor column! Notice:

If you are a good WALKER you may join us Saturday morning. We expect to walk to a nearby town, either KASBEER or ZEARING.

THOMAS is a little too far. New STILES in wearing apparel are not encouraged as we expect to wade in BROOKS and drink from a SPRINGER two and our clothes may be FULLER BURRS. No girls who LOVE to DAHL up need join us as this hike is to be on a PARR with any in the KLASsier HAMM-lets. If the skies are GRAY, we shall stay at home and take a KNAPP. We shall meet at the home of the MILLER at the SHARP turn in the road. The house is painted BROWN and trimmed in WHITE. He is a fine COOK and may give us our lunch. He also has very GOODALE, but is an old SKINNER and may FOX us on the price. There will be no DELAY in starting as this is a bad OMEN.

Very Snooily Yours, to permit the prints to be taken. Sebre said. The printed record was telephoned to Chicago and Pender was immediately identified as Denner.

It was only then that Denner confessed that he was the man wanted for murder and escape in Ohio, according to authorities.

A detective magazine has posted a reward of $100 for Denner's arrest and Ohio authorities $50 more.

Drove Away in Truck

At the jail, Denner told newspapermen that he escaped from a prison brickyard at Columbus on Nov. 11, 1930, by driving off in a truck he had been permitted to operate as a trusty.

For several years after his escape, he said, he worked as a farmhand and later as an "auto junker" at Spring Valley and Princeton. Fifteen months ago he married Mrs. Hattie Cadie of DeKalb, mother of three children, at Princeton, and had lived in DeKalb the past year, working as a carpenter.

Ohio has no parole system and after he returns to Columbus Denner must remain in prison the rest of his life unless a pardon is granted. He was convicted of the murder of his brother-in-law, John Baintre during a quarrel on a farm near Bloomingsburg, Pukway county, Ohio, in 1914 when he was 26 years old. Denner told Sheriff Larson he shot Baintre because he was abusing his sister, Anna.

Deputy Sheriff Sebre said that Denner attempted to escape from the DeKalb county jail last night. After he had been released from his cell to go to a washroom, Denner ran to a door, which only a moment before had been locked and which was unfurnished when he was put in jail, according to Sebre.

WALKED AWAY FROM PRISON, WARDEN SAYS

Columbus, O., April 30—(AP)—Warden James C. Woodward, of the Ohio state penitentiary said Donald Denner, 40, escaped in 1930 by walking away while working with an honor detail in the prison brickyard.

Warden Woodward said Denner would be returned to the penitentiary to serve out his life sentence, imposed for the slaying of his brother-in-law.

Wounded Negro In Escape from Hospital in Springfield

Springfield, Ill., April 29—(AP)—Although suffering from self-inflicted slashes on the throat and wrists, Manuel Anderson, 28, Negro sought on a charge of criminal assault and murder in Memphis, Tenn., eluded his guards at the Springfield hospital today and escaped.

Police said Anderson apparently jumped from the window of his room on the first floor, and expressed the belief he fled in an automobile with two women in it, which witnesses said was parked near the hospital. The car bore Tennessee license plates, police said.

Memphis detectives arrived at Springfield last night, intending to take Anderson back today. While held in the Springfield jail last week Anderson cut his throat and wrists. He was removed to the hospital.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

TOMB TO A POET KING

STATELY Mount Lovchen overlooks the city of Cetinje, once the capital of Montenegro, a pre-war state that now is part of Yugoslavia. From the windows of his palace, Peter II used to look out upon this mountain and dream in lofty dreams that he described in lyric drama and poetry. He became one of the greatest poets of the Balkans, and now his body lies in an impressive white marble mausoleum on the side of the mountain that inspired him.

Peter II ruled Montenegro from 1896 to 1918, and in that time practiced the ideals that he dreamed as a poet. Remarkable as a warrior and statesman, he was more renowned, however, for his reforms. He instituted a senate, abolished the political office of civil governor, and did much to educate and civilize his people.

The stamp shown below was issued in 1896, on the second centennial of the beginning of the Petrovitch dynasty. On it is a picture of King Peter's mausoleum.

BRIDGE STUDIO RAIDED; POLICE CHARGE GAMING

New York Magistrate Dubious About Game Being "Skill"

New York, April 30—(AP)—If the air was a bit bluer than could be attributed to cigarette smoke in New York's more exclusive bridge clubs today, the reason, probably, was the police department and Magistrate Anthony F. Burke.

Magistrate Burke yesterday questioned the oft and loudly voiced view of the experts that contract bridge is a game of skill.

So doubtful was magistrate Burke that he ordered heard in Special Sessions court charges of running a gambling house preferred after a police raid halted a duplicate bridge tournament.

"Non-players and policemen may consider duplicate bridge a form of insanity, but it isn't gambling by any stretch of the imagination," observed Oswald Jacoby, one of the nation's outstanding masters of the game.

Culbertson Indignant
Ely Culbertson, whose writings made him a fortune and whose books on bridge are considered as final authority by many players, stuttered in indignation and vowed an editorial campaign in his magazine, "The Bridge World."

Gambling in duplicate bridge, contended Laurence H. Axman, attorney for the Mildred Lovejoy Bridge Studio which was raided, takes place only if players have made side bets on the outcome. Otherwise, he said, it is a contest of skill for a prize, like a tennis or golf tournament.

Magistrate Burke liked it.

Miss Lovejoy and her business partner, Mrs. Adelaide Newirth, bridge instructors, and studio operators, alone were arrested. They were paroled in the custody of their attorney by Magistrate Burke.

THE TINY TINKLES

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

The Tiny girls were filled with glee, and Doty said, "As you can see, we finally have found some gold. There's lots inside that hill. I'm sure that we can bring it out. The Tiny boys will help, no doubt." Wee Coppy, who was standing near, exclaimed, "You bet we will."

"We'll gladly work the liveness day, because we have a lot to pay the old prospector back for. He has been real kind to us."

"I'm positive that everyone will think the task a lot of fun, 'cept Duncy. If he has to work, he'll likely start a fuss."

A pelican then waddled near, and Scouty yelled, "Hey, bird, come here." He waited for a minute, and the bird came to his side.

Then Scouty said, "Now, kindly dart away and get our little cart. If you bring it back in a rush, we may give you a ride."

The bird seemed willing as could be. It waddled off real clumsily. In just a little while the cart came rattling over the ground.

"Well, good for you," cried Doty. "Say, you've been a lot of help today. Don't go away. We'll buy you food with gold that we have found."

"That won't be necessary, lag, because I will be very glad to feed the funny pelican," the old prospector said.

"I'll take him to my hut, right now, and feed him till he's full, somehow. If you tot's wish to load the cart with gold, now, go ahead."

And so the whole bunch went to work. Why, even Duncy didn't shirk. The shiny nuggets were brought out and loaded, one by one.

Course some were big and some were small, but Coppy said, "We'll get them all. Even though the largest ones are heavy, we are having fun."

Washington Parade

By CARLISLE BARGERSON

Washington—One of the things that keeps Uncle Ben wedded to the New Deal—aside from the crop benefit checks—is the savings it is always promising to effect for him.

For example, upon his arrival in town the other day greeted him a statement by Mr. Samuel Becker, the chief investigator of the New Deal's probe of the A. T. & T. that excessive service charges the parent telephone company exacted from its subsidiaries cost the telephone users of the country between $13,000,000 and $14,000,000 a year. Uncle Ben hastily took out his note book and added this to some other figures he had and observed that already the New Deal stood to save him about $400,000,000 a year.

Uncle Ben has been promised a tremendous saving in his use of electricity as soon as the New Deal gets through with the power companies. The promised saving here runs into the hundreds of millions. In addition to this he is to get an electrical washing machine and an electrical device to milk his cow.

"It is utterly amazing the savings that are being effected," observed Uncle Ben. And it strikes him, he says, that even if the New Deal isn't successful in getting men back to work in private industries we ought to be satisfied at the savings that are being effected for us.

These gigantic savings are what makes Uncle Ben think maybe we ought to change the Constitution and have a centralized government.

The savings which are always being effected by reform municipal and state governments, he points out, are nothing like as large as those brought about by one central government here in Washington. He remembers, for example, the first time he ever got set up about politics. It was a mayoralty campaign in which he voted for a candidate who promised to effect a saving to the taxpayers of $87,000 in their annual electric light bill.

But with the New Deal having the whole country to operate in, naturally the saving it can effect in an electric light bill are greatly increased. As Uncle Ben points out, you can just add naughts on to that $87,000 figure pretty much at will.

One thing Uncle Ben has held against the Republicans was their action in adding a fraction of a cent to the sugar tariff in the Hawley-Smoot bill. This didn't make him mad at first but he burned up when Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi told him this was adding $300,000,000 a year to the nation's sugar bill. As Uncle Ben sees it now, the New Deal will wipe out that monstrosity in the savings which they effect for electricity users alone.

He is frank enough to admit that he has no idea what becomes of these savings that are effected, any more than he has about what becomes of used safety razor blades.

Traffic on busy streets is measured in millions of car-miles annually—and millions of car stops. Can you make these stops swiftly, surely, with least possible skidding?

You can if your streets are concrete. Concrete's gritty surface grips and holds tires, offers maximum traction in any weather. Its uniform riding surface gives you driving confidence—a further safety aid. And at night, concrete's light-gray, highly visible color makes your streets safer for motorist and pedestrian alike.

For economy, for good appearance—and for safety—insist on concrete.

It has been estimated that England's population soon will begin to shrink until, at the end of the present century, it will have decreased from 45,000,000 to 23,000,000.

DERBY FEVER SPREADS; SKY HEAVY LADEN

Prospects of Rainy Day Aids Grand Slam's Hopes

Louisville, Ky., April 30.—(AP)—If you can thrill to the task of pushing your way through crowded streets and packed hotel lobbies; stand the pangs of hunger while waiting seemingly hours for a ham sandwich, or smile as loaded taxicabs fly past with your weary feet crying for a rest—then you belong in Louisville for the 62nd running of the Kentucky Derby Saturday.

The Derby fever, which annually grips this city, today was spreading like an epidemic as railroads, airplanes, and automobiles poured their passengers onto the scene of the country's greatest turf classic.

Event the threat of a typical Derby day, with either rain, a heavy track, or both, failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the incoming mobs which quickly joined in the festive occasion. Rain, which started falling early yesterday morning, stopped only long enough last night for the festival parade and then resumed.

The weather man predicted local showers for the next three days. The prospect for today's racing was at least sloppy going.

Out at the track, far from the happy, jostling throngs, the trainers of the 15 colts and one filly expected to start in the big race stared at the heavily laden skies. Some looked worried. Others fairly beamed with joy.

R. Emmitt Potts, trainer of Grand Slam, wore one of the biggest smiles for the Bonaire ace moves up many pounds over a heavy track. If the rain continues and the going should be heavy, then in all probability the Detroit-owned colt will go to the post equal choice with J. E. Widener's Brevity.

Little is known of Brevity's mud running ability. Pete Coyne, the colt's trainer, declared he sees no reason why the heavily played choice should not like an off track. However, he would much rather prove it in some other race.

William Woodward's Granville, a son of Gallant Fox, comes from a mud-running family as does the Wheatley's stable's Teufel, an offspring of Diavolo, and Morton L. Schwartz's Bold Venture, sired by Twenty Grand's daddy, St. Germans. Of the other leading contenders, Ma A. C. Taylor's Indian Broom, world record holder at one and one-eighth miles, and the E. R. Bradley pair of Bien Joli and Banister prefer a fast racing strip.

Horses Closely Guarded
The horses, closely guarded in the Derby barns, took things easy today as horsemen and laymen still stuck to their task of trying to pick a horse to beat Brevity. For the most part, the probable starters were sent out for short, limbering-up gallops this morning. Tomorrow they will be given a final blow-out—their last appearance on the track before going to the post Saturday at about 4:30 P. M. (CST). The officials of the Downs announced the first race would be run at 12:30 P. M. (CST) with the Derby No. 6 on the program.

Although there was no getting away from the fact that from past performances Brevity is "the horse," several of the other candidates rallied strong support. Grand Slam, which lost many friends when he finished third to He Did and Sangreal in the one mile of "the trial," regained them as the rain continued to fall.

JACOBS PLANS NEW MILLION DOLLAR GATE

Schmeling-Joe Louis Fight Seats As High As $40

New York, April 30.—(AP)—Mike Jacobs, the fight promoter who brought back the "million dollar" gate last summer with the aid of Detroit's dark destroyer, Joe Louis, plans another advance on "boom" times for the Louis-Max Schmeling fight at the Yankee Stadium June 18.

Jacobs announced his price scale for tickets yesterday with a "top" of $40, the highest ever set for a non-championship bout. The only times the scale has run higher were when $50 was asked for ringside seats for Jack Dempsey's heavy-weight title defense against Georges Carpentier at Jersey City in 1921 and the same figure was charged for "patron press" seats—sold only to a restricted public—for the Schmeling-Paulino Uzcudun battle here in June, 1929.

At the other end of the scale, general admission tickets will cost $3.50, including tax. Jacobs predicted that at such prices the bout will draw gross gate receipts of $1,500,000. Alterations at the Yankee Stadium, when complete, will increase the capacity of the park for boxing to somewhere between 90,000 and 100,000.

High School Track And Golf Teams To Have Busy Week

Track and golf teams of Dixon high school will be busy this week end, the local cinder crew journeying to Princeton tomorrow, and the golfers participating in the district tournament at LaSalle, Saturday.

At Princeton the tracksters will run against Dupue and Princeton in a triangular meet, the second of this nature in a week's time. Dixon, last Tuesday, defeated Mendota and Rochelle in a triangular meet on Mendota's field.

The golf team placed second in a triangular match with Rock Island and Kewanee last Saturday, playing over a windy course at Kewanee. In the district the Purple and White boys will be competing with such schools as LaSalle-Peru high school, Princeton, Hall Township high, Mendota, Ottawa and Streator.

ning, six-hit, 2-1 victory for the Cardinals over the New York Giants. In picking the Cards and the Cubs to battle it out for this year's National league pennant, the experts have agreed that the success or failure of Parmelee would be the success or failure of the Cards. Yesterday's performance should throw some light on the question.

Though he lost, Carl Hubbell gave the Cards only 11 hits in the 17 frames, which is pretty good pitching when the St. Louis crew faces you 60 times in an afternoon.

Other pitching performances of the day included Pete Appleton's two-hit 7-3 victory for Washington over the Tigers; Bill Lee's four hit, 1-0 win over the four-hit pitching of Van Lingle Mungo of the Brooklyn Dodgers; and Lefty Gomez's three-hitter over the Cleveland Indians, which dropped the tribe from first to third in the American league. The score of this one was 6-1.

While so many extraordinary things were stealing the show, Joe Cronin's Boston Red Sox defeated the Chicago White Sox, 8-7, and regained first place in the American league.

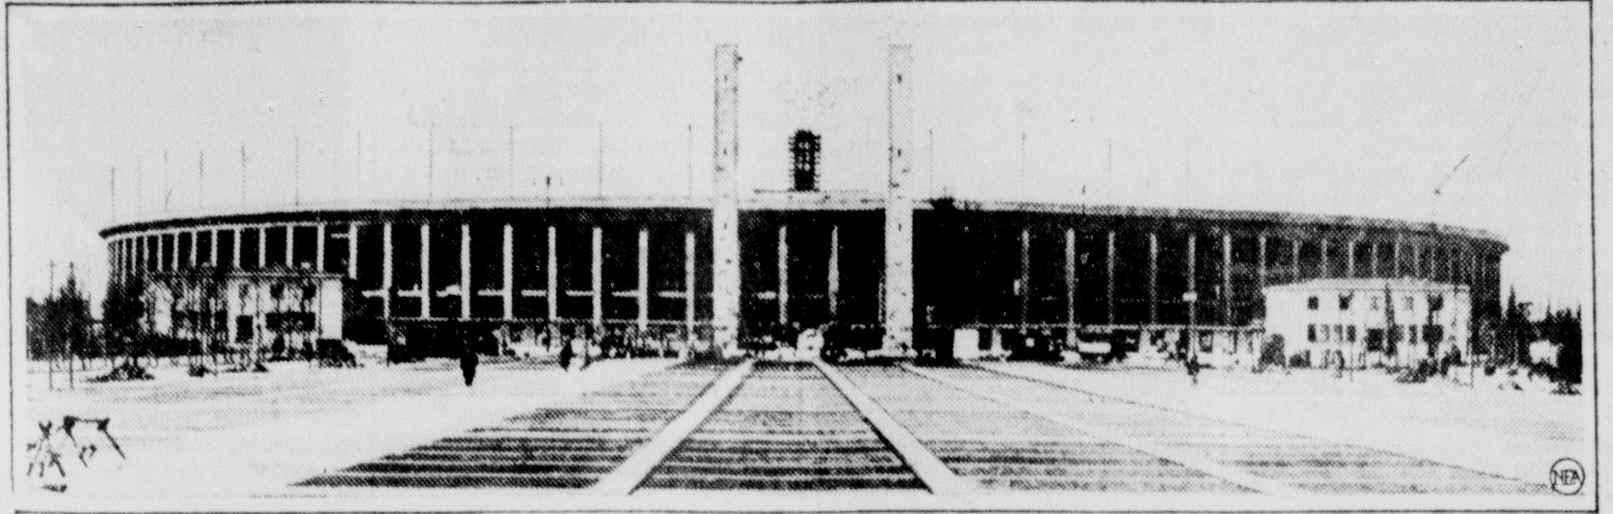

The only other game in the majors was played by the Phillies and the Pirates and ended in an anticlimax in the 11th when pitcher Bucky Walters intentionally walked two men to fill the bases and in the process got into the habit of throwing wild and hit Gus Suhr, Pirate's first baseman, forcing in the winning run. The score was 10-9.

Dusty Rhodes held the St. Louis Browns to four hits for eight innings and then was raked for three hits and four runs in the ninth but the Athletics trimmed the St. Louis Browns 7 to 4 for their seventh triumph of the season. The game was featured by circuit drives, by Peters, Cliff and Hensley.

MISS ROUND BEATEN.
Bournemouth, Eng., April 30.—(AP)—Dorothy Round, 1934 Wimbledon champion, was defeated today in the south round of the British hard court singles tennis championship by Mrs. M. R. King, 6-4, 6-2.

DIESEL RACER HITS NEW CLIP ON SALT FLATS

Goes 158.87 Miles An Hour With Eyston at the Wheel

Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, April 30.—(AP)—The racing world had a new record to aim at today in the 158.87 mile-an-hour mark set up for Diesel-powered cars by Capt. George Eyston of London.

His record run was over a seven mile section of the glistening white saline track used last year by Sir Malcolm Campbell to shatter the 300-mile-an-hour mark for gasoline propelled machines.

The track was damp and sticky but solid. Three times the streamlined Flying Spray raced three miles over the marble-smooth track yesterday, went through the measured mile and then came to a stop three miles further on.

First Try 155.35 Per.
The first trial established a speed of 155.35 miles an hour; the second 158.87 and the third 153.74.

Poor visibility frustrated Eyston in an attempt to boost his speed on the third run by using larger wheels.

"No trouble at all," Eyston said proudly upon completion of the

COCHRANE MUST REBUILD TIGER HITTING POWER

Loss of Greenberg Hampers Battery of Champions

Washington, April 30.—(AP)—Mickey Cochrane, pilot of the world champion Detroit Tigers, today faced one of his toughest managerial problems—how to win ball games without Hank Greenberg.

The lanky first baseman—voted the most valuable player in the American league last year—will be out of the lineup for at least a month with the wrist fracture he suffered in yesterday's game with the Washington Nationals.

Admitting his team sustained a setback worse than a string of losses when Jake Powell, fleet Washington centerfielder, collided with Greenberg's outstretched arm, Cochrane added optimistically that the club's pitching and hitting would keep it near the top of the league.

Obtained Burns.
Mickey said he was undecided whether to continue the combination of Marvin Owen at first base and English at third, or to recall Rudy York, who hit well with the Bengals in spring training, from the minor league club to which he was farmed.

It was announced later, however, that the Tigers obtained First Baseman Irving Burns from the St. Louis Browns, apparently to plug the gap.

Owen, third sacker for the Tigers, was shifted to first after yesterday's accident, while English took his place at third.

Today Greenberg, the Tigers' clean-up hitter, was carrying his wrist in a plaster cast. It's the same wrist he hurt in the 1935 World Series.

The injury came at a time when Detroit had won five straight games and was fast moving toward top position. The team lost yesterday, 7 to 3.

TOLD FOR THE FIRST TIME

-the real secret why PHILLIES is America's largest-selling cigar

For years, you men have been dissatisfied with cigars. You've switched from brand to brand—and with the same result . . . a bitter, biting, rasping taste. Millions of cigars thrown away in disappointment, half smoked.

Then came Bayuk PHILLIES for 5c. Smokers tried it—and in a few months made it America's largest-selling cigar. Why? Because it had rich, smooth tobacco taste all through. No bitterness—no harshness—no biting the tongue.

WHY THIS DIFFERENCE IN CIGARS?

The answer is this—and it's the real secret of why more men smoke PHILLIES.

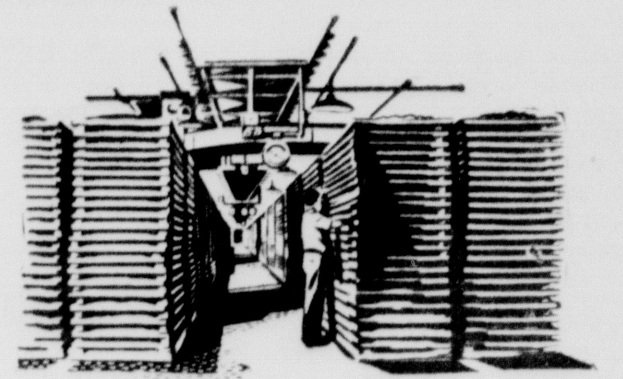

All cigar tobaccos—in the raw—contain certain bitter oils and harsh elements. If left in—you get a cigar with a bitter, biting, rasping taste. Taken out—you get a cigar that's mild, mellow and with all its real tobacco taste.

Bayuk takes them out—and by a process used by no other cigar manufacturer in America. This Process—invented by Bayuk and covered by patent protection—more perfectly conditions tobacco for cigars than any other method known. As a result—no harshness, no bitterness, no rawness get into PHILLIES.

PROVE THIS FOR YOURSELF

Get a PHILLIES—and smoke it. Note the absence of bitterness or bitey taste—even to the last draw. You taste the pure flavor of its fine Havana and Domestic tobaccos—and nothing else.

Don't be fooled by claims! It's easy to make extravagant claims about cigars—and

This picture shows an important unit in the exclusive Bayuk Process for extracting the bitter oils and harsh elements from fine cigar tobaccos. This Process—invented by Bayuk—enables you to enjoy the full flavor of the fine tobaccos used in PHILLIES without any bitter, bitey, harsh taste. No other cigar manufacturer uses this process.

many are now being made. But you can't smoke claims!

Bayuk makes no claims for PHILLIES that smokers haven't supported themselves. Proof? They've made it America's largest-selling cigar.

High for men was won by Mrs. L. J. Ullensvang. A lovely gift was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Taylor in remembrance of the occasion by the guests present. A delicious lunch

Circus Coming to Dixon Soon

The international leaping tournament, shown above, is a popular and old time circus feature to be seen with the Seils-Sterling circus, which will show in Dixon on Sunday, May 17.

The advertising cars will arrive in a few days to place the bright and flashy circus posters in conspicuous locations throughout the city and surrounding communities.

Seils-Sterling is one of the oldest circuses touring America today and has always presented a good clean show. Its coming will undoubtedly arouse considerable interest among the juvenile circles.

Women's Western Golf Association Retains Stymies

Chicago, April 30.—(AP)—The annoying stymie may be "out" as far as the Western golf association is concerned, but the members of the women's Western G. A. will continue to play them as they lie.

The W. G. A. recently abolished the stymie, topic of many an argument, from its match play events. The women's association, which has no connection with the men's, decided, however, to let its members do the best they can when an opponent's ball lies between their own and the cup.

The "singing" of katydids is achieved by the rubbing of their wings.

HULL DEFENDED ADMINISTRATION TARIFF POLICY

Secretary One of Day's Speakers Before Commerce Chamber

Washington, April 30—(AP)—Declaring there is a "rising danger" of a catastrophic world war, Secretary Hull today attacked what he termed the "supreme folly" of "excessive" trade barriers.

A revival of world trade through a lowering of such barriers is necessary to halt the "virulent disease" of economic distress, social unrest, dictatorships and war, Hull declared in a speech prepared for delivery to the closing session of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

"Only as the world's economic health is restored will individuals and nations develop again adequate resistance to the psychological madness that makes possible internal and external strife," the secretary of state said.

Describing the New Deal reciprocal trade policy, Hull said that if it were scrapped, the nation would take a "fatal" step backward. This was a reply to critics, in congress and elsewhere, who demand repeal of the trade agreements act.

More Executive Power
Repeat, Hull said, would mean that the nation would go back to the Smoot-Hawley tariff and a "suicidal effort at economic self-containment." He said it would spell aggravated "regimentation" of economic life and a permanent "dole."

Hull has been pressing a program to scale down tariffs and other trade barriers by negotiating trade pacts with foreign countries. The trade act provides that the executive branch, without the consent of congress, may lower or raise tariffs in negotiating these agreements. Previously tariffs could be changed only by act of congress.

Noting that "great business organizations, like yours have given us invaluable encouragement," Hull said:

"Although experience has already demonstrated that, under existing circumstances, the negotiations of reciprocal trade agreements represents the only constructive approach, in the field of commerce, to the problem of broad and sound economic recovery, there are some in this country who, without waiting for the economic emergency to be brought under control, demand the immediate repeal of the act and the abandonment of the trade agreements negotiated under its authority."

Attacks Politicians

Another speaker, Fitzgerald Hall, President of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway, Nashville, Tenn., attacked politicians in general. Arguing that the people have lost much of their suffrage, Hall said:

"Take our two great national parties—Democrats and Republicans. They are really two closed corporations.

"The entire party machinery, generally speaking, is in control of the federal office-holding aristocracy, aided manfully, to be sure, by professional politicians in the several states.

"To all practical purposes our national conventions are aggregations of men and women passing judgment on their own conduct and seeking further means to perpetuate themselves on the public payrolls."

Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago & North Western Railway, said:

"Paid High Honor by Buddhists"

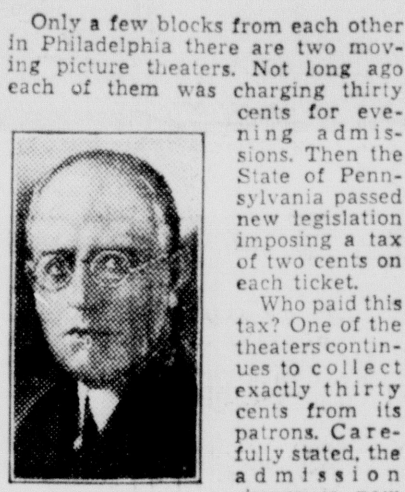

Distinction of being the only white Buddhist priestess in the United States has come to Mrs. Sunya Pratt, shown here in her ordination robes. Daughter of an English philosopher, Mrs. Pratt is leader of the Buddhist center in Tacoma, Wash.

Shifting Taxes

By ERNEST MINOR PATTERSON
President, American Academy of Political and Social Science

Only a few blocks from each other in Philadelphia there are two moving picture theaters. Not long ago each of them was charging thirty cents for evening admissions. Then the State of Pennsylvania passed new legislation imposing a tax of two cents on each ticket.

Who paid this tax? One of the theaters continued to collect exactly thirty cents from its patrons. Carefully stated, the admission charge is now twenty-eight cents plus the tax. Presumably the theater is paying the tax and making less money than before. Perhaps, however, business is so poor that the charge for admission would have been lowered to, say, twenty-five cents if the tax had not been imposed. I do not know and it is possible that even the management is not clear about it.

The other theater immediately began to charge thirty-two cents, which, of course, suggests that the patrons are paying the tax. But even this is not clear, for in a very few weeks this theater raised its price to thirty-five cents plus the tax. Perhaps if there had been no tax the price would have been raised sooner. Perhaps even in the absence of a tax, the charge now would be thirty-seven cents or even forty cents. Who knows?

Recently, under the Agricultural Adjustment Act, the federal government imposed certain processing taxes. That Act has now been declared unconstitutional and some of those who have paid the taxes are demanding their refunds on the ground that the taxes were collected under a law now declared invalid. Of course it is pointed out that perhaps these taxes were shifted by the processors who paid them either to the farmers in lower prices for wheat, cotton, hogs, etc., or to the consuming public in higher prices. If this was done, should a refund be made to the processors? If so, they would be receiving a gift from the Treasury of the United States. If not, they have suffered a loss under a law now declared invalid. Who knows the answer? Who can prove beyond doubt either side of this contention?

These two illustrations show some of the uncertainties and dangers of "indirect" taxes. Just to the extent that they are "indirect" they are shifted by the one who makes the immediate payment. But how much are they shifted and where?

In many cases there is a high degree of uncertainty. This is eminently satisfactory to those who think it better that the real payer of taxes should be kept in ignorance because this will lessen his complaints. He will merely protest against a vague something or other known as "the high cost of living." It is the tax-theory known as "blucking the goose with the least possible amount of sawdust."

Many of our taxes are of this indirect kind. They are shifted. But this has its dangers. It obscures the cost of operating our governments—federal, state and local. Governmental expenditures are increasing very rapidly. Taxes are sure to rise. In a democratic country all of us should be as conscious as possible of what government is costing. If we know what the costs are we can decide whether we are in favor of these outlays. We shall be more apt to consider thoughtfully what we want our government to do and whether we are willing to pay the price.

If taxes are direct we shall be more "tax conscious" and shall make better decisions than if the taxes are indirect and we merely pay higher prices for what we buy without knowing that we are indirectly paying higher taxes. As pointed out in a previous article, two good illustrations of direct taxes are taxes on income and on land.

UNDULANT FEVER: I.
The original name of undulant fever was Malta fever.

During the Crimean war, English soldiers were stationed on this Mediterranean island. With them was a Dr. Marston, who was first, in modern times, to recognize this unique fever. Previously it had been confounded with typhus and typhoid, but on close study was found to differ.

The fever is most marked for its uncommon persistence and wave-like change. The temperature is found to run fairly high, sometimes reaching 105 or 106 degrees Fahrenheit. The fever persists for a time, then declines for an indefinite period, only to reappear again without apparent cause.

During the remission of the fever, the patient improves and appears to have recovered completely. But he is soon undeceived by its reappearance. The high temperature, by its persistence and reappearance, severely debilitates the sufferer.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JESUS TEACHES FORGIVENESS, OF HUMILITY AND GRATITUDE.

Text: Luke 17:1-19.

International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 3.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance.

It is the quality of the teaching of Jesus that it meets every aspect of human life and need. There is no social relationship of life to which it does not apply; yet this teaching does not center around a social philosophy and a social system.

While it insists upon the character and duties of the individual in his social relationships, it is equally insistent upon the foundations on which personal life and character must be built. It relates to the problems of the individual in his personal life and character, as well as in his relationships.

There is the master of forgiveness. It is a two-fold thing. It has its bearings upon the one who is forgiven as well as upon the one who forgives.

It makes a great deal of difference in life whether men live upon a principle of harshness and exaction, with no element of consideration and mercy, or whether they meet one another on terms of consideration and kindness. But apart from its social aspect, forgiveness has an important bearing on the individual life. No man can harbor resentment in his heart without suffering from it. To harbor hate or vengeance in one's heart is to crowd out the kinder virtues.

Jesus taught this with the most careful insistence, and the truth of His teaching concerning forgiveness is borne out in the whole range of human life and history. We sometimes say of a man, "He is a good hater," as if there were something strong and fine in that; but when we turn from a man who is a "good hater" to contemplate the figure of a man such as Abraham Lincoln, with a large spirit of magnanimity toward his foes and his critics, we see how immeasurably such a man towers above those who are strong only in the intensity of their evil passions.

So, also, in this matter of humility. The man who swaggers in the consciousness of his own greatness is a sorry figure compared with the man whose ideals and standards of life are so high that, with all his attainments, he is ever conscious of never quite measuring up to the ideal.

The matter of gratitude is in the same place with forgiveness and

They Voted for Knox

Former Governor and Mrs. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois who, before leaving for Europe, cast early absentee ballots for Frank Knox for the Republican nomination in the presidential preferential primary to be held on April 14. Twice an Illinois' favorite son for the presidency, Ex-Gov. Lowden is an outstanding authority on government and farm problems. Col. Knox has said that if he had anything to do with framing the Republican platform the farm plank would be written by Mr. Lowden.

humility. There are those who take what is given them, or what comes to them, without any sense of thankfulness. They act as if other people were in the world only to wait upon them and to serve them.

How different is the soul whose response to life is one of gratitude for everything that is worth-while! How different both the inward soul and the outward day for the man who meets the sunshine in the morning with thankfulness to God because of its light and warmth, and who goes through all the day with an eager response of soul!

There is a capacity for life and soul development in such man that is impossible in the one who is hemmed in with his own narrow nature and who never rises above the level of his own narrow passions and his cramping selfishness.

Anti-Gas Course Given Egyptians

War and menace of further war in Africa has spurred Egypt to preparedness action, as this picture graphically shows, anti-gas instruction having been added to the curriculum of Egyptian University in Cairo. Students are taught to use gas masks and give first aid in case of gas attacks. Here an instructor, Dr. Mahboub, is shown demonstrating a mask to a student.

Wide-Eyed Tot Has Slept Months

Though wide-eyed and apparently awake, Maxine Yarrington, above, is fast asleep, and has been since last Sept. 24, when she was brought to an Erie, Pa., hospital, another pathetic victim of the dread sleeping sickness. Although she has developed an extraordinary appetite during her five-month slumber, the 2½-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Yarrington of Fairview, Pa., has failed to shake off the encephalitis attack.

Itching for Relief from Hunger

With nothing to do but "hold the fort," the hunger army of men and women who camped in the New Jersey capitol at Trenton conducted a mock session of the state senate in its marbled halls, John Spain, Jr. (left), "acting president," and William Schroeder are pictured as they expressed their puzzlement over breaking the deadlock that prevents passage of relief legislation by the Jersey lawmakers.

FOLLY and FAREWELL

BEGIN HERE TODAY

LINDA ROYNE, 20 years old, pretty and socially prominent in the little town of Newtown, is left almost penniless after the sudden death of her father.

She becomes friendly with PETER GARDNER, political reporter, and shows him a scenario she has written. Peter gets Linda a job as society reporter.

DIX CARTER, with whom Linda is in love, goes abroad for a year. His letters are far between, and Linda tries to forget him. She becomes engaged to Peter, but postpones the date of the wedding.

Peter writes a play, submits it to a producer who tells him to "try Hollywood."

HONEY HARMON, film actress, comes to Newtown on a "personal appearance" tour.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VIII

NEWTOWN didn't close its shops the day Honey Harmon arrived to shed her cinematic glory over its modest environs. Nor did its mayor meet her train with the keys to the city. But what the town lacked in civic welcome, the residents made up by their massed attendance at the Palace. Complete from whole families to Linda Bourne and Pete Gardner, they waited patiently in line for the tickets that would give them first-hand knowledge of what a real movie star could do, as an entertainer.

Unfortunately there was little that this one could do that night. True, she gave them an excellent chance to see how lovely one small, golden-haired dynamo could be in the flesh. A glittering halo in her famous blond hair, a sheath of white satin, a coat of snowy ermine and the famous diamond bracelets did well by the picture, but the husky tones that only Honey Harmon boasted were lost. The rosebud mouth smiled appealingly. Blue eyes looked out sadly from under nearly-inch-long blackened eyelashes while Honey's manager explained to a disappointed audience that Honey was ill. Brave little thing that she was, she felt she could not let her public down, but speak she could not. A cold had developed into something serious and she had lost her voice. She spread her hands, bowed and blew them kisses and became less real to them than her shadowed self that appeared later on the screen.

Pete, sitting beside Linda in the darkened theater, was, for once, more conscious of the picture than the girl beside him. He watched the screen with absorbed attention, and slipped the ever ready scrap of paper from his pocket to make surreptitious notes as the figure of the famous heroine glided, swept and stormed across the silver sheet.

"Bravo!" he said once under his breath.

THAT night, when the picture was over, Pete literally dragged Linda to the Mason House, Newtown's leading hotel, "for supper," he said. And when they had ordered the usual chicken sandwich and coffee, he excused himself and made a bee-line for the desk. Was Miss Harmon staying there?

She was, but she had gone directly from the theater to the Newtown Hospital. The cold in her throat was as serious as her manager had claimed. When Pete heard this he smiled with satisfaction. Hardly an expression one would expect at such news.

Pete did not mention his visit to the hotel desk to Linda. Nor did he tell her that the next morning he ordered—after personally selecting them—a box of long-stemmed roses sent to Miss Honey Harmon, Newtown Hospital. And therewith enclosed a card marked simply: "You were charming last night."

That day he made two telephone calls to the hospital. Miss Harmon had lost her voice quite completely. Yes, it was likely that she would remain for a few days.

Pete waited a few days. Then, three days later, dressed to what he called "the gills" (by which he meant his shoes were nearly shined, his English suit well pressed and he wore a low stiff collar) he presented his card at the hospital after scribbling "Representing the Newtown Blade" across his name.

HONEY looked like a picture titled "Hollywood Star Receives Reporter in Hospital." A little-girl hair ribbon bound the golden hair that flowed over a lace pillow. The darkened lashes dropped shadows on her unruddied cheeks.

"Please don't try to talk," Pete said hungrily, looking at her face. She looked back at him, not so hungrily but appraisingly. This was nice.

"But I can," she said with a throaty huskiness. "And I want to. The flowers were divine. And I adored the message."

Pete looked embarrassed. "I didn't know I was going to have to come to see you officially when I sent them," he said quite simply.

"Have to come?" she asked with a questioning smile.

"Say, you don't think I'd have dared to come on my own?" He managed to make it sound the way the words might.

"Oh, you've come from the paper," she pouted.

"They want a story about your illness. I don't usually do this sort of thing, but they wanted . . ."

"Pete was becomingly modest—"well, you know, they took me off a big story to get it."

"Oh, you're the star reporter?" Honey reversed their roles. She sat at the feet of a great man.

"Nonsense," answered Pete, and proceeded to act like a star reporter for the next 10 minutes while he questioned and minutely noted. He wrote and Honey watched. She broke off one of the long-stemmed roses and played with it, trailing it across the satin coverlet.

"You're been a peach to let me take up so much of your time," he said when he finished the 10th page.

"You're a peach to come and see a sick girl," Honey said softly, and added, "Please don't go. It's terribly lonely here all by myself. Tell me about yourself."

Pete wasn't ready yet to tell her about himself, so he asked some more questions about her.

But when she had finished telling him about the finishing school in the east, the year dear Papa died, and how frantically hard it was for Mumsie to get along on $15,000 a year, how Honey herself had gone into a beauty contest for a lark and won it, she came back to the subject of Pete. This was the first time she had met a man who actually fitted the Hollywood version of the tall, striking, silent newspaperman. Honey was tired of producers and juveniles.

"Why did you say you wouldn't dare to come to see me if the paper hadn't sent you?" She managed to wriggle the rose into a lapel.

WHEN Pete had finished telling her why he wouldn't dare and she had invited him to come and see her the next day, it was well after 7 and Pete had promised to be at Linda's house for supper at 6:30.

"Are we going to a party?" Linda asked when she saw the stiff collar and the rose in his lapel.

"Nope," he said and that was all. Linda wrinkled her nose delicately as a wave of perfume (not the kind she would have used) wafted from Pete's coat, but she said nothing about it.

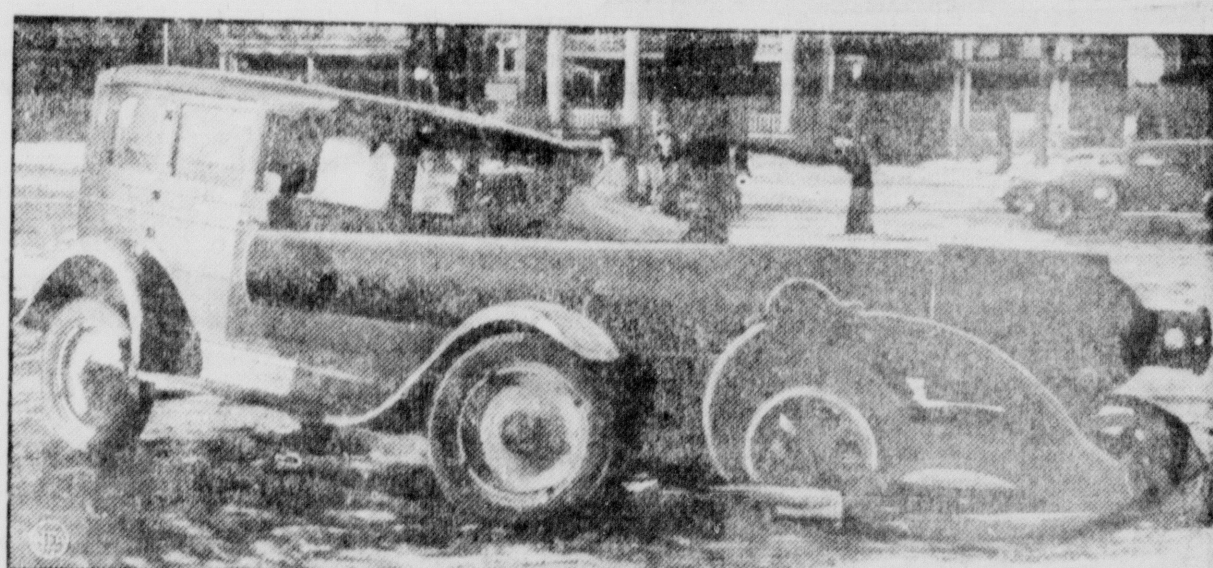

Linda didn't see as much of Pete as she had expected for the next week. Pete did not explain his absence, and she would not ask him to, but when she alighted from the trolley at the end of her street and saw a sleek Rolls parked in her path, she was curious enough to look at its occupants. Therein, in unaccustomed luxury, sat her Pete, a rug of fur over his knees and Miss Honey Harmon on his arm.

Linda got back on the trolley car and rode to the end of the line, trying to decide whether she was angry, jealous or disgusted. She decided she didn't know, but she would have given a great deal to know what Pete could have been saying that had brought a look of such utter absorption to Honey Harmon's face.

Pete, his fingers crossed, had been saying, "I have a play I'd like you to read. I had you in mind—or a woman just like you—when I wrote it."

It Took a Cannon to Halt This Stolen Car

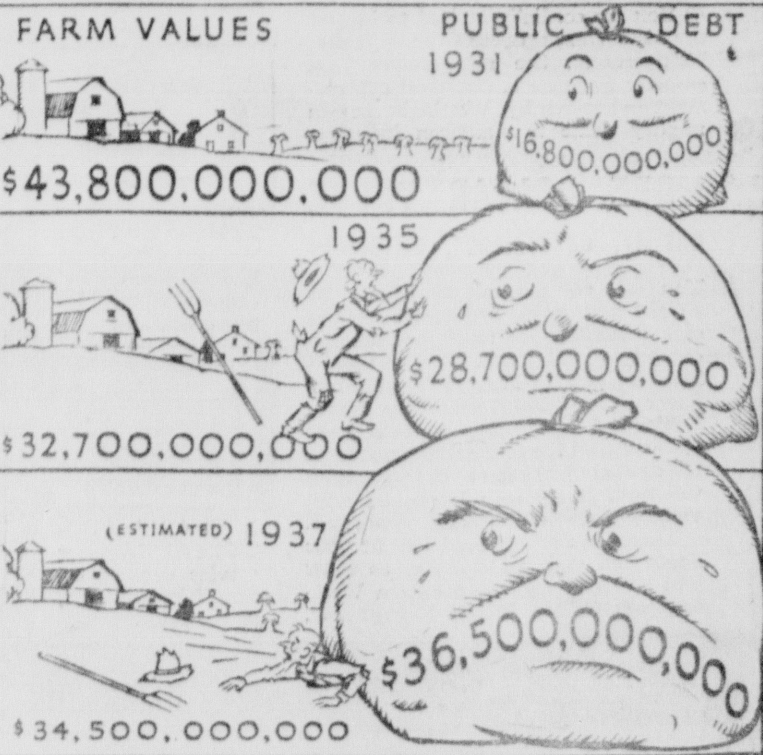

The biggest gun ever used to stop a stolen car, this cannon halted the wild ride of a thief speeding into Colonial Circle, Buffalo, N. Y. Coming off second best in his charge, the driver didn't wait for further hostilities, but continued his flight on foot, uninjured, police believed.

Wearing her honors lightly is this fair president of the country's newest entertainers' organization. ...PUBLIC DEBT WILL EXCEED FARM VALUES

THE ABOVE PICTOGRAPH should awaken farmers to the dangers which wasteful spending of public money is bringing on. In 1931 the value of all farms and farm buildings was nearly three times the public debt. That year, Democrats gained control of the House of Representatives. Since then Democrats have drawn up our revenue bills and our spending bills. Farm values have shrunk, but the public debt has doubled. It is estimated that next year the debt will exceed the value of all farms and farm buildings! Tobacco taxes, gasoline and other Federal taxes paid by the farmer are increasing. The farmer and his grandchildren will be taxed to pay off this debt. As shown in the pictograph, the debt threatens to overwhelm the farmer before he realizes his danger and demands a halt.

YOUNGER PARKER "FINGERMAN" IN WENDEL SNATCH

Accomplice Says Son of Detective Planned Kidnaping

Brooklyn, April 29.—(AP)—Harry Weiss, 28-year old Brooklyn taxicab driver, was held in $50,000 bail today on an indictment charging kidnap and assault of Paul H. Wendel, disbarred Trenton attorney, whose "confession" to the Lindbergh kidnaping delayed the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann three days.

Weiss was arraigned before Kings county Judge George W. Martin after he had appeared in the Manhattan police headquarters lineup and had been questioned by District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan.

Weiss, Geoghan had said earlier, confessed his part in the kidnaping and named Ellis Parker, Jr., son of the famed Burlington county (N. J.) detective chief as the "finger man."

Pleas Not Guilty

Weiss entered a plea of innocence to the indictment.

Weiss, the prosecutor said, charged Parker "fingered" Wendel the day he was abducted, helped in the torture by which Wendel's "confession" to the Lindbergh crime supposedly was obtained in a Sheepshead Bay hideout, and supervised writing five Wendel "confessions."

"I saw Parker yank the ropes that pulled Wendel up and down like a jackrabbit," Geoghan said. Weiss told him of the torture.

Geoghan said Weiss told of Parker, disguised in goggles and a false moustache, pointing out Wendel to his abductors on a midtown Manhattan street.

Arrested in Ohio

Weiss, indicted for participating in the abduction, was arrested yesterday in Youngstown, O., and returned here. Parker, son of the renowned Burlington county, N. J., detective, and Murray Bleefeld, also named in the confession, are under indictment. Both are fugitives.

Geoghan said Weiss told him: "Bleefeld told me I would attain my ambition to become a policeman by helping him in this case. Bleefeld said this fellow Parker has a lot of influence in New Jersey and if you go through with this you might be made a 'G' man x x x. I asked Parker if Bleefeld was kidding me about being made a state trooper and he told me that I would be a state trooper or crime investigator."

Parker supplied imitation glass-and-metal guns for the kidnapers, handcuffs and police badges, Geoghan quoted Weiss.
